

PRESS RELEASE : LeBazArt.com opening Oct 14th 2010

Despite the pouring rain last Thursday about 250 people headed to the Starrett - Lehigh Building that occupies the entire block on 26th between 11th and 12th to celebrate in style the launch of LeBazArt.com.

Founded by Stephanie d'Orglandes, leBazArt.com is a new online gallery , that showcases young artists from all over the globe. At the show 8 countries were represented. painting, collages and drawings. The average price of $1000 makes it very tempting for all Art lovers.

On show were Jordan Betten and his erotic serie, Amelie Chabannes who's work was sold out in the blink of an eye, Tiphaine de Bodman and her delicate poisonous plants, Gaella Gottwald interpreter of her own cultural melting pot. Further artists on display were Charlotte Gudmundson with her scandinavian appeal, Jae Kyung Kim and her colorful canvasses, Marlene Lindmark's sustainable eco-friendly collages. Bianca Runge's precious little collages, Olivier Urman's provocative canvasses, Jayesh Sachdev's indian pop Art and Franck le Petit's porn mangas plexi-boxes and trash sequences were all exciting discoveries.

A surprising effect was also created by the original scenography, the show taking place in the Goldsmith mannequin showroom with magnificent view on the Hudson by night.

A glamorous crowd of art, fashion and business people mingled sipping French wine (courtesy fom Gabriella Wine) and snacking on finger food.
Among other seen at the show : Chuck Close, Prosper and Martine Assouline, Bravo TV Art show contestant Nicole Nadeau..

There were quite a few dots on the art works towards the end of the night, a good indication that the audience appreciated the selection!
